Sheriff's Wife Shot In Pistol Accident

CAMDENTON, Mo. (AP)-Mrs. Russeli E. Osborn, 37, wife of the Camden County sheriff, was shot in the stomach Wednesday night in the sheriff's quarters at the courthouse.

Sheriff Osborn said the .38-caliber pistol she was putting away was discharged accidentally.

Mrs. Osborn was reported in a critical condition at a Jefferson City hospital.

Her physician said the bullet entered the left chest, struck a rib and coursed downward, perforating the liver, stomach and a kidney. The bullet was found just under the skin in her back.

She was first treated at a Camdenton hospital and then taken to Jefferson City.

CAR-BUS COLLIDE-Three persons were injured, one woman severely, at 7:30 a.m. Thursday when an auto and a school bus collided at the foot of a hill about two miles southwest of Anderson School on a narrow country road. The ear was demolished and the bus was extensively damaged. Mrs. Rosalie Meyer, 22, Route 1, the most seriously injured, was a passenger in the car. She is reported in fair condition at Bothwell (Democrat-Capital photo)

The House passed the measure Tuesday, 384 to 2, after little debate. The two "no" votes were cast by Reps. Ronald Cameron, D-Calif., and Roland V. Libonati, POLL TAX: Sen. Spessard L Holland, D-Fla., chief sponsor of the proposed anti-poll tax amendment to the Constitution, doubts it can be ratified this year.

Its chances dimmed Tuesday when the Oklahoma House rejected it, although the state Senate had approved it.

To be adopted, the amendment must be ratified by 38, or threefourths, of the 50 states. So far, 33 state legislatures have voted for ratification.

The only state legisaltures still in session that have not acted on the amendment are Missouri, New Hampshire, Maine, North Carolina and Texas.

Texas is not expected to vote for ratification. It is one of the five states which requires voters to pay a poll tax.

NO PICTURES: The Tiros V weather satellite has stopped transmitting pictures after a record-breaking 101/2 months of operations.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the shutter mechanism on the satellite's remaining camera had probably failed. The other camera went out of action July 6, 17 days after launching.

Princeton Back To Quietness After Rampage

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)-Only an occasional firecracker broke the stillness Tuesday night in this university town where Princeton students had gone on their most destructive springtime rampage in a decade.

One sobering factor was an announcement by Dr. Robert Gobeen, university president, that the student body will pay for all damage caused by the nearly 2,000 undergraduates who rioted during the wee hours Tuesday. Damage estimates run to several thousand dollars.

During three hectic and destructive hours, the rioters ripped up, bent, burned or pushed over just about everything in their path on the campus, in town, at nearby Westminster Choir College, and even tossed fireworks onto the lawn of the New Jersey Governor's Mansion. Fourteen students were arrested as disorderly per-

Goheen called the riot "a shocking display of indivudual and collective hooliganism" and promised severe disciplinary action against the offenders.

Telstar Satellite Is Working Perfectly

NEW YORK (AP)-The Telstar communications satellite whizzed through the heavens today after working perfectly in relaying television pictures between the United States and Europe.

The pictures that bounced back to the sending station at Andover, Maine, Tuesday night were described as "magnificent-very, very clear."

Tonight a color television transmission is planned between the continents.

Tuesday night's test of the satellite, launched into perfect orbit earlier in the day from Cape Canaveral, was pronounced a huge success after it relayed a taped television test program to Europe.

Coordinating College Plan Wins a Test

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A plan to coordinate the policies of Missouri's state colleges and universities won its first test in the House Tuesday.

But it took two hours to get the job done and in the process the bill picked up some weakening amendments. It was put into position for passage on an 84-33 vote.

The measure was recommended by Gov. John M. Dalton as a means of aiding orderly expansion as college enrollments boom, new branches are set up and the junior college program grows.

The bill calls for a coordinating commission of 10 membersthree Democrats and three Republicans appointed by the governor plus four educators. Heads of the state schools and the state commissioner of education would serve as advisors.

During the long debate, Rep. Jerry Harkins, R-Jackson County, charged the five state colleges "are doing a sloppy job of education in the state. All they are interested in is to perpetuate their little kingdoms.

Others challenged his statement and said the colleges are doing a good job and could do even better if their programs were coordinated on a statewide basis. The schools already cooperate on many policy matters. Also advanced was a bill to let electric power cooperatives sell wholesale power to municipalities and privately owned utilities.

A proposed constitutional amendment also won first round approval. It would let cities. counties, school districts and other subdivisions pass bond issues with a three-fifth vote instead of the present two-thirds.

A massive commercial code bill, a codification of all laws affecting commercial transactions, was approved by the Senate judiciary committee. A similar bill failed to pass two years ago.

the contents as originally intended are not always spelled out to perfection. That's why we have lawyers, law suits and arguments in city council like the one Monday night over whether the parking meter officers or other city employees can share the benefits of the police merit system.

The contention of Councilmen E. B. Smith and Ed Neighbors is that persons not listed as police officers and not paid out of police budget funds can hardly be qualified under the merit system to come under pro-

Mayor L. L. Studer, a champion of the police merit system, wants to make it as broad as the law allows, so he has referred interpretation of the

This is one of a series of moot questions about the merit system provisions arising since it was approved recently by the public and city council. The subject of authority over

The time may come when the ordinance will have to be rewritten or beribboned with amendments to clarify the wholesome intentions the original document was supposed to spell

In the meantime some consider-

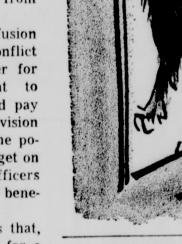

There's more to the Police Merit ation ought to be given to clarify the parking meters. They wear police uniforms, carry artillery and a commission, and are supposed to be under the discipline and orders of the police department as well as the parking meter department. Most people thought they were police officers, but now it develops they are not mentioned or listed as such. Furthermore, it is contended, even if they are officers legally they cannot technically come under the police merit system because they are not paid out of police department funds, but from parking department funds.

> Just to add a little more confusion to the mumbo jumbo of this conflict of interest, would it be proper for the parking meter department to make a contract to employ and pay the police department for supervision of the parking meter men? The police department then could budget on its payroll the parking meter officers and thus make them eligible for benefits of the merit system.

> Surely it can't be as easy as that, but the idea offers a potential for a lot more argument in city hall circles and from those whose legal opinions are solicited.

And don't forget the court clerk, the traffic clerk and the poundmaster also may want to be included in the merit system—as an after thought.

Tip-Toeing Into Racial Problems

ELECTIONES

WASHINGTON (AP) - All through his news conference President Kennedy stepped gingerly on the subject of racial strife in Alabama as if he were leading an expedition on tip-toe around a land

Then it suddenly popped-or it sounded like a pop-because of clumsy Alabama timing. Negro leaders themselves disagreed on whether they heard an explosion. Kennedy kept quiet this past week while day after day Negroes by the thousands in Birmingham put on massive demonstrations for equal treatment and thousands of them were jailed.

The President might have stepped publicly into this critical situation by calling for a solution or criticizing the Negroes or the whites who refused them equal treatment or both. But he pre-

Behind the scenes his administration was trying to get white and Negro leaders to reach some kind of understanding. As this seemed near this week he decided to say something publicly, but in a very mild and indirect way.

Tuesday night through an aide he expressed hope the increasingly dangerous problem could be settled peacefully. Then less than 30 minutes before he faced his news conference Wednesday came the Negro leaders announced a 24hour truce in the demonstrations. Kennedy told the newsmen, "We can hope that tensions will ease' and this episode would remind all communities how urgent it is that "all bars to equal opportunity" be removed as promptly as possible. He said "very real abuses" had been inflicted on Birmingham Negroes "too long" and that the situation in that city was "damaging the United States. And he added the thought that the best way "to prevent that kind of damage is to, in time, take steps to provide equal treatment to all our citizens.

the reputation of Birmingham and

While all this might be taken as a rebuke to the white segregationists. Kennedy's idea that in time steps toward equal treatment should be taken can hardly please the Negroes. Their massive demonstrations were as vivid evidence as anything in American history that they are fed up with this theory gradualism-of waiting-for equal treatment. They've been waiting for it since the days of slavery. Kennedy made it clear he is reluctant to step directly into the Birmingham problem. He was asked if he thought a fireside chat by him might help improve race

"Well, it might," he said, but added: "If I thought it would, I would give one." He said it didn't "seem to do much good" when he made a television appeal for restraint last fall on the night of the riot at the Universit y of Mississippi

He told the newsmen: "I think what we are interested in now is seeing the situation peacefully settled in the next 12, 24 hours. I think all of our statements should be devoted to that end.'

Then came that popping sound which may turn out to have been an explosion. The Rev. Martin Luther King and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy were leaders in a Negro demonstration April 19. They were arrested and charged with parading without a license. They were also leaders in the recent massive

But another Negro leader, the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, said the mass demonstrations would not be resumed and that the jailing of King and Abernathy "may not be the breaking of faith on the part of the white businessmen" who had helped work out the truce

King and Abernathy finally were released on bond and King said he hoped his conviction would have no effect on the truce.

Whether these contradictory statements of the Negro leaders means a split among them isn't clear. Because it is not, it isn't clear what comes next. Meanwhile, Kennedy said nothing fur-

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My daughter drinks excessively. She no longer attends church, rushes around with a hard drinking crowd and is so critical of me I wonder why I take it, Instead of baby sitting for her, maybe I should say, "I refuse to contribute to your delinquency by looking after your children while you carouse around town." She attended a college that stressed social life and left it to marry into a wealthy family. The boy was my favorite. ANSWER: You sent this child to a frivolous school, smiled on a wedding which has involved her with her husband's hard-drinking friends. Now you ask me to support your moral indignation at the results of your misdirections. I can't do it.

Under this self-righteous tone you take toward your daughter is sadness. You'd better try to feel it. We all have to feel it sometime, for we all transfer our moral confusions to our children. We want them to pursue their shine as Belle of the Ball. We want them to respect the First Commandment - but also respect money and power. They're to re-

When a child we have confused starts drinking to get away from her conflicts, the moral indignation that patronizes her as weak is not appropriate. It's just a trick to avoid the pain of realizing we have been as weak as she is.

Yes, you'd better start really feeling your sadness. If you can, you may be able to help your daughter feel hers - and curtail the drinking which is her escape, just as self-righteousness is your

But with this phony front of moral superiority you'll never manage it. You'll get nowhere by saying to your daughter, "I consider you delinquent." She knows you do - and fights you because she can't stand it.

But if you can know yourself to have been as deficient as she now seems to be, the fighting could end. Sometimes the sad, studies - but also want them to truthful words that express our disappointment with ourselves can open the floodgates of another's self-contempt so that the false distance between us is destroyed.

The Doctor Says

Know What to Do For The Snake Bite Victim

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the approach of summer, both men and snakes will be coming out of hiding. A few may meet at close range. As a result, about 1,500 persons will incur snake bites.

Close to 70 per cent of these bites will be from rattlesnakes. About 2 per cent of the victims will die

Pit vipers (copperheads, cottonmoughs, and rattlesnakes) are found in every state where encroachment of human habitation has not crowded them out. The only other poisonous snake in the United States is the coral snake, which is found chiefly in the Gulf When poisonous snakes come out of hibernation their venom is more concentrated than in the summer and fall. They will always avoid contact with human beings if possible. But if suddenly surprised, they will attack ferociously

The rattler does not shake his rattle when he is stalking his prev, but will do so as a warning when he is annoyed. This is a warning it is well to heed.

The fangs of the pit vipers are perfectly designed hypodermic needles. At the completion of a strike, the snake's poison gland shoots the venom through the hollow fang into the victim. The coral snake is far less dangerous, as it does not have fangs. But by chewing the part bitten, it grinds the venom into the wound. Since it is a small snake, it can bite only such parts as its jaws can encompasss. In man this would include fingers, toes, ears, or nose. Except for the rattlesnake, quick identification of poisonous snakes may be difficult for the beginner, because the distinctive color patterns vary in males and females, young snakes and old, and the brightness of the markings is greatly diminished just before moulting. If the snake is killed, it may be identified by consulting a textbook or a qualified herpetologist. The bite of a pit viper is very painful. Swelling and a deep red discoloration of the skin appear at the site of the strike within a few minutes In spite of popular belief, whisky should not be taken for snake bite, as it causes the venom to be absorbed more quickly-and anything that can slow absorption is what is needed.

There is, however, a great deal of controversy about the best way to do this. All agree that the victim should lie as still as possible until antivenin can be given. The victim should also be taken to a hospital as soon as possible. The arm or leg that has been struck should hang down below the level of the heart, and the affected part should be kept especially quiet. Immediately after the bite, the wound should be squeezed forcibly, but this should be done only once. Repeated squeezing will hasten absorption of the venom. Suction should then be applied to the wound by means of a special pump which is part of a standard snake bite kit.

If no kit is available, mouth suction is the next-best thing. The venom will not harm the unbroken mucous membrane of the mouth. More information about treatment will appear in another

We the Women

No Time for Chores

By RUTH MILLETT, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Once upon a time I wrote a column pointing out that the wife who wants her husband to get ahead shouldn't expect him to spend evenings and weekends helping her around the house.

A man, I claimed, needed time for reading, studying, figuring out the answers to job problems, and just for relaxing, to keep moving up the success ladder. So wasn't it shortsighted to expect him to spend his evenings helping with the dishes and getting the kids to bed, and his weekends being a handyman, leaving him little time to himself?

Letters poured in from angry wives, claiming their husbands not only routinely helped them with housework, but enjoyed doing it. (Nary a letter from a husband claiming to love housework, how-

Now a study of what are the main causes of husband and wife squabbles lists as No. 5 "conflicts over sharing household tasks."

Obviously the picture the wives painted of their husbands loving to help with the housework isn't quite the way things are in many families.

There is bound to be quite a bit of rebellion on the part of husbands at being expected to be mama's little helper, if husband and wives argue more over "sharing household tasks" than they do over their children or in-laws, as the study showed they do.

Working wives, who have no household help, do, of course, have a right to expect husbands to lend a hand with household chores.

But full-time homemakers whose financial security depends entirely on how well their husbands succeed, would be smarter to manage the housework without their husband's help. They should permit their husbands to concentrate on making a success of jobs or ca-

Reasons for Italian Communist Vote

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON-Some people, even including a few Catholics, have been blaming Pope John for the increase of the Communist vote in Ita'v. They claim that the Pope, because of his Easter encyclical urging that the world live in peace, has gone soft on communism.

This writer is a non-Catholic who initiated the Democracy-Letters-to-Italy campaign in 1948 which helped turn the tide of that year's election. From that background, I can report that there were four reasons for the Communist vote increase, and none of them had anything to do with the Pope. They were: 1. The migration from the poverty-stricken south to the prosperous industrial north, where the Communist party is well organized. 2. The population increase, by which five per cent more Italians went to the polls. Since the Communist party in Italy has always been the biggest in the world outside Russia, it was bound to get a slice of these

3. The death of Enrico Mattei, head of the Italian oil combine. Eni, who in the past has always subsidized through advertising some of the moderate, liberal newspapers. Following his death, Eni made a deal with the Rockefeller family's Standard Oil of New Jersey, and its political activity stopped.

This left the Communists with their own well subsidized press, while 90 per cent of the other newspapers are dependent on the anti-Fanfani advertising, especially the Association of Lombardy Industrialists. About 90 per cent of the press vigorously opposed Fanfani's center-left coalition. 4. Italian Communists when in power in municipalities have done a good job Mayor Dozza Goes to Washington

Take the case of Guiseppe Dozza, the mayor of Bologna, who has been reelected regularly ever since the war. I have no reason to praise Mayor Dozza, because when I went through Italy with the Friendship Train, he was the only Italian mayor who refused to come to the train to greet us. He said I had been critical of him for having stored a secret cache of arms to upset the government.

However, the Eisenhower administration, recognizing Mayor Dozza's standing in Italy, invited him to Washington, where in the Cosmos Club he made such a beguiling speech that Commissioner Robert McLaughlin, a Republican, paid tribute in reply to the No. 1 Communist mayor of Italy and offered to arrange with Baltimore to "twin-up" with Communist-governed Bologna.

Bob McLaughlin was a conscientious, conservative commissioner of the District of Columbia, but with a passion for good city government. Communist Dozza had given Bologna good government.

This is how the Communists have won votes

Neopotism in Business This column, which has focused attention on nepotism in government, now turns the spotlight on nepotism in private business, in particular the Hotel Corporation of America, which holds a stockholders' meeting today. The Hotel Corporation of America, which owns the Mayflower in Washington, the Plaza and Roosevelt in New York, the Royal Orleans in New Orleans, and operates charter houses around the USA, has seen its stock drop fifty per cent in recent years; and when you look at some of its nepotism you can understand

President of the company is A. M. Sonnabend, drawing a salary of $100,100. Executive vice president is son Roger P. Sonnabend, drawing $40,000. To keep everything in the family, another son, Paul, is a vice president, with a salary of $27,500. But this is only part of the story. Another interesting chapter is the way members of the family and directors build or buy hotels. then turnaround and lease them to the com-

For instance, R. B. Grymish, a director of the Hotel Corporation until last year, built the Charter House Motor Motel in Kittery, Maine, then turned around and leased it to the company of which he was a director at $45,377 a year for 12 years, plus a sliding percentage of the profits. The Charter House in Kittery has been no money-maker and there have been no profits to split At Lynn, Mass., the same Grymish and Ben D. Schulman, also a director of the hotel corporation, built another Charter House motel, then turned around and leased it to their company for 20 years at $84,000 annually plus a percentage of the profit. Again there has been no profit.

Another interesting deal has been the leasing of the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago to the Hotel Corporation. The Edgewater Beach is owned 26 per cent by A. M. Sonnabend and family with ex-director R. B. Grymish and his family. In other words, the hotel corporation operated by Sonnabend and Grymish rented the Edgewater Beach Hotel in which they owned a fat share of stock.

But last year, when an offer of $8,000,000 came along for the Edgewater Beach, the hotel corporation released it, in return for $1.500,000 for breaking its long term lease. Then Sonnabend and Grymish, having helped to engineer the sale, turned around and floated the mortgage money through the Boston Foundation, which they, together with A. S. Burg, another hotel corporation director, control.

Maybe the SEC should do a little more investigating of nepotism inside business.

Everyone laughed, including Mrs. Truman.

The guests included friends, former associates and World War I cronies. Among the callers was Chief Justice Earl Warren.

'Kickback' A Political Contribution

STREATOR, Ill. (A) - Mayor Ray Sopher, accused of soliciting a $3,000 kickback from a Kansas firm on a $30,000 city contract said Wednesday the money was "a political contribution."

Sopher, 48, the father of four children, is free on $1,000 bond pending a hearing on a federal charge of interfering with inter state commerce by extortion.

"I will continue to serve in the office to which I was elected and I will be vindicated," Sopher said

The FBI seized Sopher in a Chicago hotel Tuesday after he had taken the money in a sealed envelope from a representative of Smith & Loveless, Inc., of Lenexa Kan. The FBI said the mayor had arranged with B. Alden Smith. managing director of the firm, for the payment.

Sopher said a representative of the Kansas firm had asked the four commissioners and Sopher several months ago to use their influence so that the firm's equipment would be used on a sewer project.

The mayor said the unidentified representative invited the commissioners and Sopher to visit the Kansas plant at no cost to them.

The representative, he said, promised the five-man council 10 per cent of the $30,000 contract to be used for the non-partisan campaign. All five sought reelection in April. Sopher and commissioners John Kerestes and John Ramza were successful.

Sopher said the council "has nothing to do with the use of any firm's equipment on work done for the city." He said the contract for sewer work was let to the lowest bidder, Farthing Bros. of Streator, who would select equip ment and material for the job.

Smith told the FBI the council had accepted the firm's prices on the sewer equipment, but would not approve the order unless a 10 per cent kickback was made.

Smith's statement indicated other council members were in volved, and James P. O'Brien, U S. district attorney in Chicago said he has not ruled out the pos sibility of other arrests.

Streator is a community o 17,000 about 100 miles southwest of Chicago.

ARMED FORCES DAY

MAY 12 WHITEMAN AIR FORCE BASE 9 A.M. to 5 R.M.

YOUR INVITATION

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 14th Annual Observance of Armed Forces Day at Whiteman Air Force Base. We have many aircraft, displays, and exhibits available for your viewing today portraying the theme "Power for Peace" which the United States Air Force upholds throughout

As you view these displays, I hope you can gain a feeling of the challenge that lies ahead in the changing mission of this base. We are changing from manned aircraft to the Minuteman Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. It represents another step the Strategic Air Command must make to place a new weapons system in operation to meet the demand of changing times.

The Strategic Air Command has a motto: "Peace is Our Profession." It says there is much technical effort required of a man who fulfills the duty of guarding these United States of America. This is our chance to show you what we are doing to uphold your trust in us.

Every citizen should take full advantage of such opportunities to learn about the mission of the Armed Services of this Country. Each service has a particular job, unified, and assigned by the Department of Defense to protect you and yours in the best way possible. This presentation should give you an idea how SAC fits in this picture.

It is my sincere hope that your visit this year to Whiteman Air Force Base will be pleasant and informative. Though the program is an Armed Forces presentation, we do not overlook the poignant fact that it is Mothers Day. To all of you and Mothers in particular, I say, "Be our guest for it is our pleasure."

Colorado athletes had the best marks in seven events today as Big Eight track teams tuned up for the conference championships at Manhattan, Kan., May 17-18, but this doesn't make the Buffaloes the favorites.

Oklahoma State had the best marks in three events; Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State in two Notice of the base o each and Kansas in one.

Missouri, Nebraska's indoor champions and Oklahoma State rate on a par with Colorado in depth and talent. All four have a chance to take it all and Kansas could break into the first four.

Oklahoma won the 1962 crown.

Colorado would need all winning performances from a small crew of top athletes headed by Jim Miller, Bob Griffith and Leander Durley. Miller has the best time of the current outdoor season in both the 120-yard high hurdles, with 14.1 and the 330-yard hurdles with 36.6.

Durley has the best triple jump mark at 47-1034 and the top high jump of the season at 6-834. But jump of the season at 6-83/4. But he faces a talent-packed field in each event, including Larry Eilert of Iowa State, defending high jump champion.

Bob Griffith of Colorado turned in an outstanding double against Nebraska and Air Force last Saturday, taking the mile in 4:09.6 and the 880 in 1:53.8. In the mile Margaret Slane, N. G. he defeated Mike Fleming, de- Kathryn Spillers, Sec'y. fending outdoor Big Eight champion at 4:08.1 last year.

Other defending champions rester, Missouri, 880; and Preston business. Holsinger, Oklahoma State, pole vault. Pelster has the best seasonal time in his specialty, 1:50.4, with unofficial relay carries down to 1:47.5. Holsinger is best in the pole vault at 15-5. Inman, slowed by an injury, is second to Yul Yost of Kansas so far.

Meet records in at least five events will be in jeopardy. Pat McNeal twice has surprassed the mile record of 4:06.2, with a best of 4:05.3. McNeal, Fleming and Griffith should bring down the mile mark.
